Pottery of the Islamic World: In the Tareq Rajab Museum

Geza Fehervari : Pottery of the Islamic World: In the Tareq Rajab Museum before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Pottery of the Islamic World: In the Tareq Rajab Museum:

This book presents the history and development of Islamic pottery through ninety selected vessels and tiles, displayed in 100 beautiful photographs. Early Islamic and Fatimid period luster wares are represented by outstanding vessels, and a large dish showing an enthroned ruler dating from the 14th century is found in the early Persian section. The Ilkhanid period is represented by many rare items, matched by a wide variety of previously unstudied Timurid vessels.
