Sally A. Queen : Turning the Centuries: Calendar 2000 (Historic Fashions Calendars) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Turning the Centuries: Calendar 2000 (Historic Fashions Calendars):

The main emphasis of this calendar is not so much on dress, however, as on the museums from which the featured items of clothing were selected. A different museum is showcased each month along with several items from it's collection. Information on how to contact each museum is also listed, including web addresses. Featured institutions include: Royal Ontario Museum, Old Sturbridge Village, Missouri Historical Association, Hillwood Museum and Gardens, Old State House, DAR Museum, Nevada State Museum and Goldstein Museum of Design.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. More historic fashionsBy annbwass@aol.comThose of us who are particularly interested in the early 19th century are always eagerly looking for more extant costume examples, and this year's calendar has several. The turn of the 18th century mantua is also a treat as there are so few of them illustrated anywhere. Ms. Queen has done her usual excellent job compiling the photos from a variety of museums. I can hardly wait to see next year's!

More than a wall calendar, this book on the wall has over 50 objects of what people were wearing the last three times the centuries turned plus fun and valuable information on fashions in 1690-1710, 1790-1810, and 1890-1910. Objects are from twelve premier costume collections in North America including Museum of City of New York, Royal Ontario Museum, DAR Museum, and nine additional collections. Wedding dresses, court clothes, shoes that danced with George Washington and the ensembles that went to the first inaugural gala.
